Speedy Cure.
An Irishman who had sent for the doctor for the first time in his life watched with astonishment while the physician took his clinical thermometer from its case, slipped it under the patient's armpit, and told him to keep it there for a second or two.
Mike lay still, almost afraid to breathe, but when the doctor removed the thermometer he drew a long breath and exclaimed: "Ah, I do feel a dale better already, sor."—London Idens.

A SUMMER COLD

A cold in the summer time, as everybody knows, is the hardest kind of a cold to get rid of. The best and quickest way is to go to bed and stay there if you can, with a bottle of "Boschee's Syrup" handy to insure a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectation in the morning.
But if you can't stay in bed you must keep out of draughts, avoid sudden changes, eat sparingly of simple food and take occasional doses of Boschee's Syrup, which you can buy at any store where medicine is sold, a safe and efficient remedy, made in America for more than fifty years. Keep it handy.—Adv.

Evening Capes Compel Our Loyalty

Whatever may be the fate of the cape for daytime wear its reign is not over, nor the end of it in sight, in the realm of evening wraps. Just as we begin to wonder if it will not have to abdicate in favor of something more novel, along comes some such compelling and conquering example of it, as that pictured above, and we join the ranks of its devotees and renew our loyalty at once. This wrap really deserves to be called gorgeous. It will prove a joy to its wearer, for it has all the qualities that will win her the admiration of those who have a fine sense of clothes.

It requires the sheen and body of heavy silk to get the character of this wrap, and it is made of taffeta, and plenty of it. It is gathered, with close rows of fine shirrings, with all possible fullness into a deep yoke and into three flounces at the bottom. The yoke is rich with bold leaf and flower designs in silk and metal threads, and the work in embroidery and shirrings is beautifully done. Such a wrap matches up well with the big, beautiful fan of ostrich feathers carried with it, and demands something unusual and lovely in the coiffure. Certain of the darker shades in warm colors make the best choice for this cape, or black with a colored lining might be selected for older women.

Black satin, always sure to command attention, and presented each season because it is sure of a welcome, appears now in long, draped, capelike garments with openings for the arms, something between a cape and a dolman. One of the new models has huge roses, as big as a large saucer, embroidered over its surface, with sapphire blue glass beads, and many a longing, lingering look trails from the eyes that pass its way. A wrap made in the same way, but without the bend embroidery, is lined with silk in beige and black with stripes at least six inches broad. A very large rolled-back collar brings the striped silk about the neck and reveals a satin wrap for older women that is unrivaled in its appropriateness and dignity.

To Wash a White Sweater.
Dissolve one level tablespoonful of borax and one-fourth of a cake of white soap in cold water to cover the sweater generously. Let soak an hour, then squeeze it out, but do not wring. Rinse very thoroughly through several cold waters, then squeeze as dry as possible (or put through the wringer), pull it into shape and dry it. All wool flannels and blankets are safely washed thus.

When drawing thread from linen rub white soap on the cloth and the work will be much more easily accomplished. When making eyelet embroidery, if a piece of white soap is held under the material and the stiletto is allowed to pass into it a much better eyelet can be made, as the soap gives a slight stiffness to the cloth.

Packing a Blouse.
Much difficulty is often found in packing blouses. If folded in the following way, they can be closely packed, for a long time without looking crushed when taken out to wear. Lay flat on the table, front down, and fasten. Then fold back the sleeves, and pin to the blouse at the top and at the cuff to keep in position. Now fold back the front of the blouse at the waist line, and pin to make secure.
Medicine Stains.
As most medicines, especially tinctures, are soluble in alcohol, methylated spirits will often remove the stains from clothes and other utensils. When stains contain silver compounds (to this class belong paints for warts, the throat and nose), any white fabric on which a little compound has been spilt acts like a piece of sensitized paper, and at once darkens on exposure to the light. An effective method is to soak the stain for some time in a tincture of iodine, then treat with a strong solution of hyposulphate of soda; strong ammonia will then complete the process. Medicine stains very often yield to alcohol. These stains frequently leave terrible disfiguring discolorations on table bed linen, and not uncommonly also result in iron mold. They should be spread with a paste made of pulverized fuller's earth and spirits of hartshorn, allowing the application to dry upon the stain, and finally washing out in cold water. If necessary, the treatment may then be repeated, but one trial is generally sufficient.

To remove medicine stains from spoons, rub first with a soft rag dipped in sulphuric acid, wash with soap-suds and polish with a chamois skin.

Ugh! Calomel Sickens; Salivates! Please Try Dodson's Liver Tone

I am sincere! My medicine does not upset liver and bowels so you lose a day's work.

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick; you may lose a day's work. Calomel is mercury or quicksilver, which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into your bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Your druggist or dealer sells you a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and can not salivate. Give it to your children. Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.
